

Parents of Males Network

Welcome to the Parents of Males with a MECP2 Mutation Network. Parents and Individuals who care for males with Rett syndrome or a MECP2 mutation oftentimes feel isolated...you are no longer alone. This network is a primarily email based community that will provide you with the ability to communicate with others experiencing the same issues you are, allow you to form special relationships with other parents and caregivers, and most importantly will provide you with the much needed information you have been looking for. You will receive regular network email communications, the IRSFlash (our monthly e-news alerts) as well as the IRSF Rett Gazette (our bi-annual print newsletter).
