

Advocacy Resources

While you want the best programs and services for your child with Rett syndrome, you may not know what resources are available within your community, or the laws that protect them.

There are funded agencies in every community that make it their business to help you answer these questions. Please contact your IRSF Regional Representative for a referral in your area, or follow the link here to find the parent information center closest to you: Technical Assistance Alliance for Parent Centers

You may also download this document for a full list of Parent Technical Centers.
