

IRSF Translational Research Workshop

Spawns Flurry of New Projects

The IRSF Translational Research Workshop held on March 23 and 24 in New York City served as both a catalyst for ideas and a springboard to launch them. The workshop included 25 physicians, scientists, researchers and executives from government, academia and private industry who shared ideas about RTT, pathways to drugs and structure for moving the process forward.

Two days of lively discussion led to a series of recommendations that were quickly followed by action. To stay informed about these exciting developments, please continue to check back as information becomes available.
