

ALL IN FOR a cure

The International Rett Syndrome Foundation (IRSF) is dedicated to accelerating a cure and fighting for the families dealing with Rett Syndrome every day.

We need your help to raise $29 million by 2024 to advance treatments and a cure for those with Rett syndrome.

We're going ALL IN for a cure, for families, and individuals with Rett all over the world.

IRSF Funded Discoveries

-  The discovery of which gene causes Rett (called MECP2)
-  Rett is reversible in mice
-  Advanced 2 compounds to late stage clinical trials
-  Companies investing in the fight to find a cure have grown from 1 to 20 (1900%) in 8 years

We've been changing the game for decades

Through the support of our donors, IRSF has been investing in projects that profoundly impact foundational Rett syndrome research, resulting in discoveries and partnerships critical to our mission of finding a cure.

Together, we can raise

$29 Million

over the next three years to make critical advancements toward treatments and a cure for those with Rett Syndrome. We can provide solutions for every family fighting Rett – but only with your help.

Together,

let's go ALL IN and make sure no family faces Rett syndrome alone.

As we relentlessly pursue a cure, we come alongside families with support, wherever they are on the journey. Each of them face constant challenges, heartache and disappointments. They all need compassionate and practical support, effective treatments and ultimately, a cure.

You can meet those needs by helping us take incredible strides forward in much-needed research – right now.

- 1 Increase investments in ground-breaking research that provides the promise of new therapeutics
- 2 Advance research to flood the pipeline for treatments and a cure
- 3 Enhance clinical trial success and expand care for all those in need.

Let's go all in. For a cure. For families. For individuals with Rett, all over the world.
